PRESENTS

CELTIC DHARMA:

Bridging Eastern & Western Wisdom Traditions

The Isle of Crystal, or Caer Sidi, is the sacred Celtic, Cathar, and Knights Templar archaeological site situated northwest of Nice, France. Last year, guided by a vision, Dr. B. Raven Lee journeyed to this ancient seat of rituals and initiation for healing and divination practices. Originating from the Black Sea and Asian Steppes, these practices continued into early Roman times, and encompassed the Holy Grail legends. In the 1970's, Tibetan monasteries were built on Celtic powerplaces in France and the U.K. In 1985, Tibetan lamas recognized that the mandala site could serve as a portal to the Celtic Annwn, the Land of Ancestors or Tibetan Shambala, if approached with the right keys. Together with Dr. William R. Leon, who has been researching these keys for two decades, Dr. Lee led a tour of this ancient site to demonstrate its healing powers.

Celtic Dharma serves as a message of unity between East and West, spirit and nature, and the wisdom of the feminine and masculine. This coming October, Dr. Lee will be leading a pilgrimage to Caer Sidi. Join her in this two hour presentation of her visions, healing practices, and discoveries regarding the common ground the Celtic and Tibetan spiritual traditions share.
